STATE OF THE STATE:

A STATISTICAL PROFILE OF RHODE ISLAND’S CITIES & TOWNS

Department of Labor and Training
RHODE ISLAND

A publication of the Labor Market Information Unit
State of the State – A Statistical Profile of Rhode Island’s Cities and Towns

From Burrillville to Block Island, from Woonsocket to Westerly, recent demographic and employment trends have impacted the lives of all Rhode Islanders. Incorporating information collected by the United States Department of Commerce and the Rhode Island Department of Labor and Training, State of the State depicts demographic changes and recent employment trends that have impacted our local economies over the last twenty years.

Population diversity based on age, sex, race, and ethnicity, as well as educational attainment, labor force statistics, and English language proficiency of local residents, is encapsulated in statistical profiles for each of Rhode Island’s thirty-nine communities. An overview of local private sector employment by industry sector is also provided on a city and town basis.
As of 2019, private job levels averaged 424,358, an increase of 36,534 (+9.4%) from the 2009 average and is now the peak private employment level. The unemployment rate is down 7.4 percentage points from 2009 to 3.6 percent. The state's population count stood at 1,057,231 in 2019, up 620 from 2018.

Thirty-one of the state's thirty-nine cities and towns reported total employment growth between 2018-2019, with Tiverton having the largest over-the-year increase (+15.1%). Cranston (-4.4%) posted the largest total employment decrease.

Providence establishments employed the largest percentage (23.3%) of Rhode Island private sector workers, followed by Warwick (10.5%), Cranston (7.0%), East Providence (4.8%) and Pawtucket (4.6%).

Twenty-five cities and towns gained residents, with Providence (+363), Cumberland (+232) and Lincoln (+185) adding the most people. Of the fourteen cities and towns that lost residents, only South Kingstown (-292), Newport (-245) and Bristol (-210) lost more than 200 residents.

Note: employed data included in this edition of the State of the Strate is pre-pandemic.
