Introduction

The Labor Market Information Unit is pleased to present the Rhode Island Occupational Wage Report. This publication provides estimated wage rates for over 840 detailed occupations, as defined by the Standard Occupational Classification (SOC) system. The statistics are based on responses from Rhode Island establishments surveyed for the Occupational Employment and Wage Statistics (OEWS) survey.

The OEWS survey is a federal-state cooperative program involving the State Employment Security Agencies and the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

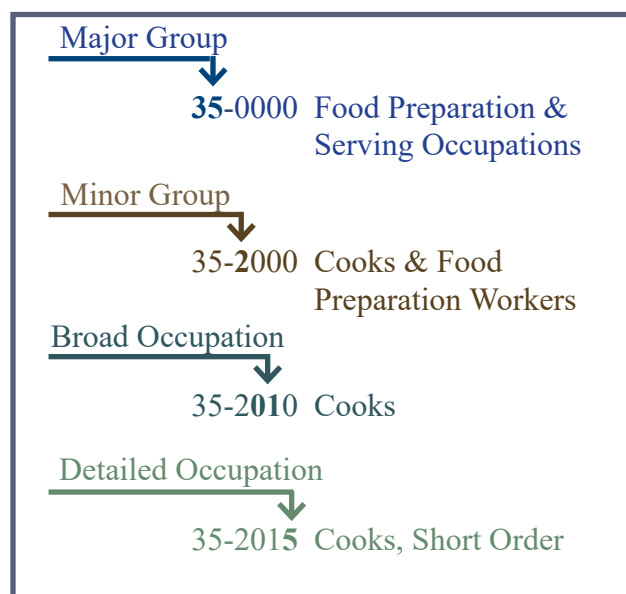

We wish to express our appreciation to all those employers who responded to the OEWS Survey. In addition, we express our thanks to the U.S. Department of Labor, both on the regional level and the Federal level for their help in the Federal-State cooperative effort. Lastly we wish to thank our OEWS regional counterparts in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts and Connecticut for their support and help.

The 2018 Standard Occupational Classification (SOC) system is a system for classifying all occupations in the economy including private, public, and military occupations. SOC is the foundation of the O-NET system and is used by all federal statistical agencies to classify workers into occupational categories for the purpose of collecting, calculating, or disseminating data.

The occupations in the SOC are classified at four levels of aggregation to suit the needs of various data users: major group, minor group, broad occupation, and detailed occupation. Each lower level of detail identifies a more specific group of occupations. The 23 major groups, listed below, are divided into 98 minor groups, 459 broad occupations, and 840 detailed occupations.

SOC Major Groups

Coding Guidelines

- A worker should be assigned to an SOC occupation code based on work performed.
- When workers in a single job could be coded in more than one occupation, they should be coded in the occupation that requires the highest level of skill.
- Workers who perform activities not described in any distinct detailed occupation in the SOC structure should be coded in an appropriate "All Other" or residual occupation.
- Workers in Major Groups 33-0000 through 53-0000 who spend 80 percent or more of their time performing supervisory activities are coded in the appropriate first-line supervisor category in the SOC. In these same Major Groups, persons with supervisory duties who spend less than 80 percent of their time supervising are coded with the workers they supervise.
- Licensed and non-licensed workers performing the same work should be coded together in the same detailed occupation, except where specified otherwise in the SOC definition.

How To Read the Tables

For each occupation in the tables of this publication, there is a corresponding SOC code and an estimate of employment within that occupation. The remaining data fields are Lower Entry Wage, Upper Entry Wage, Median Wage, and Experienced Wage.

1 SOC (Standard Occupational Classification) Code is a six-digit code designed to define occupations uniformly and to organize occupational data logically.

2 Estimated Employment is an approximation of the number of people employed in each area, occupational group, or specific occupation. Estimates for detailed occupations may not sum to the totals because the totals may include occupations not shown. If the estimated employment is not publishable, an  will appear.

3 Lower Entry Wage is the 10th percentile of wages. Ten percent of the reported wages fall below this estimate.

4 Upper Entry Wage is the 25th percentile of wages. Twenty-five percent of the reported wages fall below this estimate.

5 Median Wage is the 50th percentile of the distribution of wages. For each median wage, 50 percent of the workers in an occupation earn wages below, and 50 percent earn wages above median wage.

6 Experienced Wage is the rate at which 75 percent of the reported wage rates falls below the 75th percentile.

Because of confidentiality or lack of data, not all occupations appears in this publication.

NE

The following data presents median wages for the major occupational groups in the New England states. The median wage values are in hourly wages. It is important to note that median wages indicate the middle point in the wage distribution, meaning that half of the workers in each occupation earn more than the median, and the other half earn less. The data covers the major occupational groups defined by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. These figures offer valuable insights into the earning potential in different locations within the region.
